- Backed by a nationwide limited warranty*

RIGOROUS DURABILITY TESTING

To measure the strength of Protektiv HYDRO's level of durability, we've applied the globally accepted Mohs Hardness Scale, which compares the resistance of a mineral being scratched by ten reference minerals.

Protektiv HYDRO ranks 9 out of 10 which rates it 4 times harder than quartz-based surface protection products readily available in today's market.

UNTREATED VERSUS TREATED BONNET:

Tested in the harshest of conditions, this muddy water simply sheets off the surface, taking dirt and contaminants with it.

MOHS SCALE OF HARDNESS COMPARISON

Mohs vs. Vickers hardness comparison: This chart compares the hardness of index minerals of the Mohs hardness scale (an integer scale) with their Vickers hardness (a continuous scale). Mohs hardness is a resistance to being scratched, while Vickers hardness is a resistance to indentation under pressure. The graph shows the great difference between the Vickers hardness of Carborundum and diamond - which are only one unit apart on the Mohs hardness scale.
